Explanation of relief sought:

Note: Relief can relate to denial of access to records (Utah Code § 63G-2-401(1)) as well as unreasonable denial of request for a fee waiver (Utah Code § 63G-2-203(6)) or extraordinary circumstances (Utah Code § 63G-2-401(1)(b)).

To what type of denial does this appeal relate?

Denial of access to records

Denial of a request for a fee waiver

Contest of claim of extraordinary circumstances

Note: A chief administrative officer can apply the weighing provision, which means that he or she can order disclosure of records that were properly restricted if he or she determines that, in a specific instance, the interests favoring access are greater than or equal to the interests favoring restriction, Utah Code § (63G-2-401(6)). For this reason, a requester's convincing argument will be helpful.

Details and inclusions for notice of appeal:

Note: Utah Code § 63G-2-401(3) provides that the requester or interested party may include a statement of facts, reasons, and legal authority in support of an appeal.

What inclusions accompany this appeal?

Statement of facts, reasons, and legal authority in support of appeal

Copy of original records request

Copy of denial from the governmental entity's records officer

Note: Utah Code § 63G-2-204(9) provides that failure to respond is equivalent to a denial.

Is this appeal based on a records officer's failure to respond?                      yes              no

Note: Utah Code § 63G-2-401(4) provides separate time lines for requests involving confidentiality claims.

Does this appeal involve a confidentiality claim?                      yes              no              unknown.

Request assistance

A petitioner may request assistance from the government records ombudsman. The ombudsman serves as a resource for a person who is filing an appeal relating to a records request. The ombudsman may also attempt to mediate disputes between requesters and responders (Utah Code § 63A-12-111(2)).
